

Mr. Raymond (Ray) Koshi
Deputy Director
U.S. Army Regional Cyber Center - Pacific

Mr. Raymond Koshi (Ray) originally from the Big Island of Hawai'i has served as a career Department of Defense civilian for over 35 years. Mr. Koshi was sworn in as a Department of Navy civilian in September of 1989 at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii while serving as an electronics engineer for the Naval Shore Electronics Engineering Activity, Pacific (NAVSEA ACTPAC). His other assignments include the USARPAC G64 HQ Support Branch Chief, PES-K Deputy PM at DISA Pacific Regional Field Office, CENTRIXS-K COR at USACISA-P/1ST SIG BDE, Integrated Product Team Leader for PEO EIS/I3MP voice and data infrastructure upgrades throughout Japan, and Fleet Support Engineer for C4I systems while at the U.S. Navy Space and Naval Warfare (SPAWAR) Pacific - Yokosuka, Japan.

He holds a Bachelor of Science in Electrical Engineering from the University of Hawaii at Manoa and a Master of Science in Program Management from the Naval Postgraduate School. Mr. Koshi has completed up through the Continuing Education for Senior Leaders (CESL) program from the Army Staff Management College, as well as the ARCYCBER Executive Leadership Development Program (ExLDP) at UNC Chapel Hill, NC.

Mr. Koshi's personal, civilian decorations include the Army Superior Civilian Service Award, the Army Achievement Medal for Civilian Service, the Korean Civilian Service Medal, and the Signal Corps Regimental Association Bronze Order of Mercury.

Mr. Koshi is married with one child.